Alva and Zella Matheson files from LaKay M. Weber's home.

it was best to go on.

I hope that you are now happy and contented, ready for the winter's battle with books and other troubles. I hope and trust, that you will have the very best and most successful and most pleasant winter yet.

If you are happy and you write and tell us about it, it will help to drive away the monotony of a third winter.

We have finished up the work, that you and I commenced.

Have made some more peach preserve and have our pickles under weigh.

Haven't any tomatoes yet.

Girls have gone for a moonlight walk and for fresh water.

I would have gone but wanted
